

Application of symmetry analysis to a model for sexually transmitted diseases

M.B. Matadi

University of Kwazulu-Natal

205522546@ukzn.ac.za

SAMS Subject Classification: Lie Groups and Transformations

Lie group analysis is applied to a Mathematical model which describes sexually transmitted diseases formulated by Haderler and Castillo-Chavez. Several instances of integrability even linearity are found which lead to the general solution of the model. A discussion of such solutions is presented and it is shown how they complement Haderler and Castillo-Chavez's qualitative analysis.